Official Form 106G

Schedule G: Executory Contracts and Unexpired Leases

12/15

Be as complete and accurate as possible. If two married people are filing together, both are equally responsible for supplying correct information. If more space is needed, copy the additional page, fill it out, number the entries, and attach it to this page. On the top of any additional pages, write your name and case number (if known).

1. Do you have any executory contracts or unexpired leases?

- ☐ No. Check this box and file this form with the court with your other schedules. You have nothing else to report on this form.
- ☒ Yes. Fill in all of the information below even if the contracts or leases are listed on Schedule A/B: Property (Official Form 106A/B).

2. List separately each person or company with whom you have the contract or lease. Then state what each contract or lease is for (for example, rent, vehicle lease, cell phone). See the instructions for this form in the instruction booklet for more examples of executory contracts and unexpired leases.

Annotations to Completed Sample Form 106

Schedule G

Schedule G is the debtor's statement of executory contracts and unexpired leases. For a general discussion of Schedule G, see § 7.3.7.4, supra. For a general discussion of unexpired leases and executory contracts, see § 12.9, supra. The completed schedule contains a note referring to the following annotations:

62. The debtor must list on Schedule G any unexpired leases and executory contracts. The debtor's interest in the contract or lease may also be listed on Schedule A/B. This schedule is designed primarily to put the trustee on notice of leases or other executory contracts that might be assumed or rejected because of their potential benefit or cost to the estate. An executory contract is broadly defined as one for which significant aspects of performance remain due by the parties. An unexpired lease is one that has not yet terminated according to its terms. If the debtor has no unexpired leases or executory contracts, the debtor should check the applicable box. For cases that include unexpired leases or other executory contracts, the listing must include a description of the contract or lease as provided here. Many debtors will have cell phone, internet, and cable contracts that may be listed. The debtor may be party to an automobile lease, an ongoing employment contract, or a pending sale agreement for goods or real estate. These should be listed as well. All entities listed on Schedule G must be included in the list of creditors filed at the outset of the case to ensure that they receive notice. BACK
63. Consumer debtors who are not homeowners will likely have a residential lease that should be listed on Schedule G. Such leases should be listed even if the lease is only a month-to-month oral agreement. A lease that has terminated prepetition should not be listed on this schedule and any liability for back rent or other damages resulting from the lease termination should be listed in Schedule E/F, as done in Ms. Reyes' case with respect to the back rent claim owed to the local housing authority. 64. Even though the debtor may consider an executory contract terminated when she stops using benefits under the contract, if the term of the contract is not completed then it should be listed on Schedule G. In the sample case, if Ms. Reyes had defaulted on the storage contract, the storage company may have acquired a lien on her property under state law. If the storage company had perfected its lien or if state law automatically granted a lien to the company when the goods were placed in storage (as is the case in most states), the debt would have been listed as a secured debt on Schedule D rather than on Schedule E/F.
