Be as complete and accurate as possible. If two married people are filing together (Debtor 1 and Debtor 2), both are equally responsible for supplying correct information. If you are married and not filing jointly, and your spouse is living with you, include information about your spouse. If you are separated and your spouse is not filing with you, do not include information about your spouse. If more space is needed, attach a separate sheet to this form. On the top of any additional pages, write your name and case number (if known). Answer every question.

Part 1: Describe Employment

1. Fill in your employment information.

If you have more than one job, attach a separate page with information about additional employers.

Include part-time, seasonal, or self-employed work.

Occupation may include student or homemaker, if it applies.

Annotations to Completed Sample Form 121

Schedule I

52. Schedule I has a box in the upper right corner that is labeled: “Check if this is an amended filing.” This box should be checked if an amended Schedule I is filed to correct information reflecting the debtor’s income as of the petition date. Schedule I has an additional box labeled: “A supplement showing post-petition chapter 13 income as of the following date: ____.” This box should be checked if the new Schedule I is intended to report postpetition changes in the debtor’s income in a chapter 13 case, noting the date when the change took effect. The attorney should be sure to check the appropriate box and also make the applicable event designation when uploading the document in the ECF system.

53. Schedule I must include income information for both spouses in a joint case, and also when one spouse files a case individually, unless the spouses are separated. Employment information for the debtor and a non-filing spouse (if the spouses are not separated), or both debtors in a joint case, is listed in Part 1 of Schedule I. Part-time, seasonal, and self-employed work should be included. Information about additional employers should be provided on a separate sheet if the software preparation program does not provide for additional listings.

54. Part 2 of Schedule I requests information that is used to estimate the debtor’s monthly net income. The debtor is instructed on the form to “estimate monthly income as of the date you file this form.” For wage income the form asks the debtor to provide both gross and net monthly take home pay, and to list the applicable payroll deductions. If the debtor has more than one employer, the form instructions state that the information for all employers should be combined and reported on the lines in Part 2, rather than provide separate listings for each employer. All of the debtor’s outside sources of income should be listed. In chapter 13, absent enumeration of outside sources of income, it may appear that the debtor is unable to support plan payments and cannot satisfy the feasibility standard under 11 U.S.C. § 1325(a)(6).

55. When income is from operating a business, profession, rental property, or farm, the total net income is reported in line 8a. The debtor must also attach for each property and business a statement showing the gross receipts, ordinary and necessary business expenses, and the total monthly net income.

BACK

56. Child support, alimony, and any other family support that is regularly received by the debtor, a non-filing spouse, or a dependent is listed on line 8c. Other contributions to the expenses reported on Schedule J that the debtor regularly receives are listed on line 11.

BACK

57. Even though some public assistance benefits such as food stamps (under the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program) or rental/utility allowances may not be treated as income for many purposes, government cash assistance and the value of any non-cash assistance, if known, that is regularly received should be listed in response to line 8f on Schedule I. The amount of such assistance is typically offset by a relevant expense listed in the appropriate category on Schedule J. This may be especially important in a chapter 13 case to show how the debtor is able to pay a particular expense. BACK

58. Regular contributions to the expenses listed on Schedule J received by the debtor from someone who is not a spouse or former spouse of the debtor, such as an unmarried partner, roommate, or dependent, should be listed separately in line 11, with a description of the contribution. This listing is of particular importance in chapter 13 cases in which the income contributions may be necessary to meet the regular income eligibility requirement or to make the plan feasible.

Contributions for expenses that have already been reported elsewhere on the form should not be listed on line 11. Also, contributions should be listed on line 11 only if the related expenses are reported on Schedule J. For example, if the debtor shares a $100 monthly utility expense equally with a roommate, the $50 monthly contribution from the roommate should not be listed as income on Schedule I if the debtor lists only their $50 share of the expense on Schedule J. BACK

59. Any non-speculative expected change in income should be listed on line 13 of Schedule I, with an explanation. As this statement satisfies the document filing requirement of section 521(a)(1)(B)(vi), the debtor should not leave the question blank if no change in income is anticipated and should instead check the box “No.” A response to the question removes any doubt that the filing requirement has been satisfied. If a change is listed in a chapter 13 case, such as, for example, commencement of unemployment income, it may be necessary to account for the anticipated change in the chapter 13 plan. Alternatively, the debtor may file a modified plan when the income change occurs. See § 8.7.3, supra.
